Changes ahead at Rushworth Kinder

Rushworth Kindergarten and Childcare is set for a new management era, following approval at a special general meeting to come under the wing of the Goulburn Region Preschool Association (GRPSA).

The change is scheduled to take effect on December 27, bringing GRPSA's total managed services to twenty across Moira, Strathbogie, Greater Shepparton and Campaspe local government areas.

President of Rushworth Kindergarten and Childcare Tracey Rogers said "Following strong community support for the proposal put forward at our Special General Meeting, the committee agreed to transition from the Committee of Management Model to an Early Years Management model."

"This will help streamline operations, improve governance and compliance, and align the service with sector best practices in early childhood education. The timing works well with the Best Start, Best Life reform and introduction of Pre-Prep," Tracey added.

GRPSA is a not-for-profit, Early Years Management approved provider for rural and regional early childhood services operating across Moira, Strathbogie, Greater Shepparton and Campaspe Shires.

CEO Ronni Druitt said the association was excited to have Rushworth on board.

"We believe we have a similar philosophy and as we already are the approved provider for Colbinabbin and Murchison kindergartens, the location is ideal for our management team to support the service," she said.

Rushworth Kinder kids were excited have a 'ginormous' fire truck visit recently. They were able to climb up into the back seat of the cab and have a look around at the bright yellow roll bars and all the nobs and buttons. Even better - they could climb up into the back of the truck and pretend to spray the educators! Faries Dean and Deb (Nanny) gave out some pretty cool show bags and then drove off with the siren sounding – it was really loud!

Time to book in for Christmas Lunch!

The festive season is fast approaching and with it comes plans for one of the most universal traditions — the festive meal!

This year in Rushworth your planning may have been taken care of. The inaugural free Rushworth Community Christmas lunch will take place in the former Senior Citizens rooms on Christmas Day, with festivities commencing at 11am.

This wonderful free Christmas lunch is proudly presented by the Red Knights International Motorcycle Club Australia Chapter 14, made possible thanks to the generous support of the Shire of Campaspe and Community Bank Rushworth.

Guests will be treated to a delightful five-course Christmas meal, complete with festive decorations and all the joyful trimmings that make this day so special. It's a chance to share great food, warm company, and the true spirit of Christmas with others in our community.

Nothing will go to waste either — any leftovers will be thoughtfully packaged and distributed through the Foodbank, ensuring the Christmas goodwill continues to spread. Colin from the Red Knights emphasises that everyone is welcome. There are no criteria, no costs, and no barriers — just an open invitation to enjoy Christmas Day surrounded by community.

However, for catering purposes, it's important to book your place. Organisers are encouraging people to register as soon as possible. Bookings can be made through the Op Shop, the Foodbank, or the Rushworth Community Bank.

The Red Knights — a motorcycle club made up of firefighters — are well known for their social, charitable, and educational contributions, and continue to be a vital pillar of community spirit across Rushworth and the broader Campaspe region.

So don't miss out — book in today and come share the joy, warmth, and togetherness of Christmas in Rushworth!

Truck fire sparks Council warning on proper battery, e-waste disposal

Campaspe Shire Council is calling on residents to dispose of electronic waste (e-waste) – including batteries – responsibly following five waste truck fires in the past eighteen months caused by batteries in kerbside bins.

These incidents are not only dangerous and expensive, but they can also force waste crews to dump smouldering loads on the roadside to prevent injury. Such situations often result in the total loss of a waste truck and pose a serious fire risk, especially under current high-danger and windy conditions.

Residents can dispose of batteries and e-waste free of charge at any of the Shire's Resource Recovery Centres. E-waste includes anything with a plug, battery or power cord, such as kitchen appliances, electronic devices, video game consoles, musical instruments, radios, LED lights, lamps, batteries and cables.

Campaspe Shire Council Mayor Daniel Mackrell stressed the importance of understanding how and why e-waste must be disposed of correctly. E-waste is growing three times faster than standard waste and contains hazardous materials that do not belong in landfill. Because of this, the Victorian Government has banned e-waste from landfill, meaning it cannot be placed in any of Campaspe's three kerbside bins.

Proper disposal at a Resource Recovery Centre helps protect the environment and allows valuable materials to be recovered for reuse or up-cycling. Lithium batteries are a particular concern as they are known to ignite in bins, trucks and landfill. The community is strongly encouraged to use the free drop-off points at Council centres to reduce these risks.

The Mayor also noted the broader consequences of truck fires. Each incident puts drivers, emergency services and the community in harm's way, while also costing thousands in repairs and causing disruptions to waste collection services. Correct e-waste disposal plays a vital role in preventing these dangerous events and reducing avoidable costs.

Once collected, e-waste is transported to a recycling facility where items are dismantled, hazardous materials are safely removed and valuable components are recovered for use in new products, helping support a circular economy.

For information about waste disposal and the locations and operating hours of Council's Resource Recovery Centres, visit www.campaspe.vic.gov.au/RRC.

Common Sense to Canberra

In the past few weeks, we've seen two big wins for common sense and they only happened because Australians, especially in the regions, stood up and pushed back.

The first was the proposal to drop country road speed limits to 70km/h. It was a plan cooked up in Canberra without any understanding of how regional communities actually live, work and travel. It ignored the realities of regional life - long distances, freight, farm work, emergency services, and families who simply can't afford to lose more time on the road.

Instead of reducing the speed limit the Government must invest money to repair and maintain our roads! Locals are fed up dodging potholes, repairing busted wheels and slowing down at roadworks only to see them washed out after a couple of months.

A photograph showing the lower half of two people standing outdoors on a grassy area. The person on the left is wearing dark blue jeans and a dark, quilted jacket. The person on the right is wearing a bright pink long-sleeved shirt and is holding a small, dark object, possibly a phone or a small device, in their hands.

The second backflip came on Labor's attempt to weaken the integrity of the Defence honours and awards appeals system. Veterans in our region contacted me early worried, frustrated, and feeling overlooked. Their concerns were repeatedly raised by the Nationals, particularly my colleague and Shadow Minister for Veterans Affairs Darren Chester, because the Bill was wrong. It stripped rights away from the very people who have served our nation. The government has now been forced into retreat after its own Senators refused to back it. That tells you everything. I'll keep fighting to make sure this legislation doesn't come back.

These episodes speak to a broader pattern of misplaced priorities. While pushing flawed policies, the Albanese Government continues to waste money like the Bureau of Meteorology, where millions have been poured into rebranding and bureaucracy instead of what matters: improving forecasting so farmers and regional communities can plan with confidence. When families are cutting back, government agencies should be doing the same not spending taxpayers' money on vanity projects. I'll keep working every day to call that out and to deliver practical, sensible outcomes for our communities.

Contact my office if you need support with Federal government matters.

Join the walk against family violence

Campaspe residents are invited to join the Walk Against Family Violence on 4 December – an initiative taking place as part of the 16 Days of Activism Against Gender-based Violence between 25 November and 10 December.

In partnership with Echuca Regional Health, the Centre for Non-violence, and Safe + Equal, Council invites you to walk in solidarity with victim-survivors and take a visible stand against family violence in all its forms. Together, all can work (and walk!) towards creating a community where everyone feels safe, valued, and respected.

The Walk Against Family Violence is part of a global United Nations initiative held annually from 25 November (International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women) to 10 December (Human Rights Day). The walk will bring residents together to promote equality, respect and safety for women and girls across the Campaspe Shire region.

Beginning in Echuca's Hopwood Gardens at 10am on 4 December with a Welcome to Country, attendees will hear from a guest speaker from Centre for Non-violence before walking from the gardens to Echuca Library where there will be interactive activities, displays, information material and a morning tea.

Campaspe Shire Mayor Cr Daniel Mackell applauded the initiative and invites the wider community to join the show of support for those in the community who have experienced family violence.

“This project is a reminder that preventing family violence and promoting gender equality requires all of us to stand up and work together,” he said.

“When community members speak out and take action, we send a powerful message that family violence has no place here. Together, we can create a culture of respect, equality and safety for everyone.”

In addition to the walk, during the 16 Days of Activism Against Gender-based Violence, Council's Echuca headquarters will be illuminated in orange, the official colour of the campaign, as a powerful symbol representing hope and a future free from gender-based violence.

Campaspe’s Christmas cheer commences

Christmas decorations and activities will be lighting up towns across the region throughout December. This year Campaspe’s featured Illumination Stations include giant reindeer Twinklehoof in Rochester, Jolly Santa with his ‘Aussie sleigh’ and the giant glowing gift box in Echuca, and a large Christmas Tree in Kyabram.

Alongside the dazzling Illumination Stations, towns across Campaspe are hosting a wide variety of Christmas events, offering something for all ages to enjoy – from carols and craft markets to storytime sessions and art installations.

Campaspe Shire Mayor, Cr Daniel Mackrell said “There’s something festive happening in every corner of Campaspe, including the Christmas sound walk in Girgarre to the decorated bell tower in Rushworth, Santa’s sleigh in Lockington, and the Colbo Pub Choir carol trail in Colbinabbin.

“Every town has added its own flavour to the season, and it’s well worth taking the time to explore and enjoy the atmosphere,” Cr added.

Cr Mackrell shared his appreciation for the many community groups who have been busy organising events and activities across Campaspe in recent months.

“Our towns feel alive this time of year, and that’s thanks to the passionate locals who put in the hard yards behind the scenes.

“It’s all helping to build a festive atmosphere and giving families, especially those visiting for the holidays, a chance to make some really special memories together.”

A “Christmas in Campaspe” booklet is available as a go-to guide for festive events and decorations around the shire. Copies are available at Council service centres and libraries, as well as via Council’s website www.campaspe.vic.gov.au/trails.

Red Knights Motorcycle Club Toy Run - spreading Christmas cheer across the region

The Red Knights Motorcycle Club will hold its annual Toy Run on Saturday, 6 December, bringing festive spirit and community support to families in need.

The event will commence in Echuca with a community breakfast, followed by a Welcome to Country and a smoking ceremony to send riders off at 9.30 am.

This year’s Toy Run route will take participants through Tongala, Kyabram and Rushworth where riders will stop for a lunch provided by Rushworth SES— and there will be an opportunity for residents of Rushworth to donate toys or cash. The participants will then continue on through Colbinabbin and Elmore, finishing in Rochester.

The aim of the ride is to collect toys and cash donations to bring some Christmas joy to families who need a helping hand this festive season. All donations gathered throughout the ride will be presented to the Rochester Salvation Army, who will distribute them to local families in need.

Last year, the Red Knights raised around $6000 in cash and collected $2000 worth of toys. In addition, the club put together $2000 worth of food parcels, ensuring even more families received support during the Christmas period.

Red Knights riders from Rushworth will meet outside the bakery on the morning of the event, riding together to Echuca to join fellow members as they set out on the 2025 Toy Run.

The Red Knights Motorcycle Club invites the community to come along, donate if they can, and help make Christmas brighter for families doing it tough.

A big thank you to many:

First, our wonderful service personnel who gave so much to allow us to live in such a beautiful free country.

The Community of Rushworth and Colbinabbin, such a giving lot of wonderful folk.

On the week leading up to 11 November, Remembrance Day, the selling of poppies and badges . . . and talking of poppies, thank you Kylie for knitting eighty-odd poppies for sale - top job mate!

Thank you so much to the folks who helped selling during the week - Sharon and Kelly Perry, Margaret Raglus, Terrie and Wayne Robertson, Claire and Garrick Campbell, Roberts and Isobel Ralph, Ian Riley and I guess my wife Barb for putting up with me.

Thank you Sharon for the beautiful photos on the day and thank you to our P12 students for being there : the laying of the wreaths, the raising of the flag and a Remembrance Day reading, all done by the students. Your presence and conduct on the morning was an added beauty to a wonderful service. You are no longer children but young adults and our future. To you all - take care and all the best in life's journey.

Thank you Kerrie and P12 staff also and our musicians, David Barton on the accordion, and Raymond Rathjen on the bagpipes. This all made it a beautiful service conducted by President, Bill Barlow,

Thank you Mary Beck for organising Buffy (Paul) for putting out the poppies on the lawn and Mark Bartlett for putting up the 100 Year Legacy Plaque at the Memorial.

There is a lot of good in the world and I saw it on Remembrance Day. A bit of rain and sunshine, some clouds and lots of wonderful people. Thank you ALL.

Christmas Cards

Christmas is the time when greeting cards relating to the season are readily available and those of us who still send cards to friends and family are thinking about how many to purchase.

Over the years, most lists have perhaps become shorter due to the loss of dear friends and family who have passed away. Email Christmas letters or elaborate electronic cards now being sent have replaced a card arriving in the mail as well. It can though, be a good way to catch up with people who have had a part to play in our lives and perhaps we no longer see as we now live far apart. When we receive a card, it is rather nice to have that person represented in a tangible item that can be popped on a mantelpiece or shelf and perhaps serve as a reminder of happy days and times spent together each time we look at the card.

It is quite surprising that snow, snowmen, sleds and snowflakes representing Christmas time in cold climates still seem to dominate choices in the shops and less reflect the Australian scene at this time of year or the true meaning of Christmas, Christ's birthday and a time of peace and goodwill.

Bush Church Aid Society are one organisation that sell Christmas cards (available on line) that reflect the true meaning of Christmas and with true Australian themes.

Postal services are very variable too as there is still a huge increase due to the number of parcels and cards sent through the post. An item is sometimes surprisingly fast to arrive - within two or three days, but I have heard accounts of people receiving Christmas cards three months late! Overseas delivery times vary greatly and it pays to have sent those items well before now!

These notices were in an 1869 copy of the Waranga Chronicle and Goulburn Advertiser listing the times to expect the mail delivery and convey a confidence that this is when the mail will arrive in Murchison and Rushworth.

Hope your mail arrives in time for Christmas 2025!!

Christmas assistance

As Christmas approaches, I know many families across our region are feeling the squeeze. What should be a joyful time can quickly become stressful when household budgets are already stretched and the pressure to make ends meet grows heavier.

I want locals to know that you are not on your own. Right across the Euroa electorate, community groups are quietly and generously stepping in to help people through the season.

Neighbourhood Houses, the Salvos, St Vincent de Paul, church groups and volunteer-run community pantries are offering food hampers, toy drives, meal packs, bill assistance and emergency support. These programs exist because our community cares deeply and no one should ever feel embarrassed to reach out.

If you or someone you know needs a hand, please make contact with these services and if you are unsure where to start, my Benalla office is always here to point you in the right direction.

I also want to thank the volunteers and donors who put in countless hours at this time of year. Your kindness brings relief to families who are doing it tough and shows the true spirit of our communities.

Christmas can be a tough time, but when we look out for one another, it becomes a whole lot brighter.

Deaths near Rushworth, 1853-1861

Part two of a two-part series by Alan McLean

In a previous edition of Waranga News, we summarised a record of deaths in the earliest days of the gold-rush in this district. It is reasonably assumed that some of the people were buried in Rushworth's first graveyard, in the forest just south of the town. This week we continue the list, starting with a common cause of death. The mines were hazardous and the work was dangerous.

Walter James Scott, died 23 November, 1860, son of George Scott and Isabella Wilmot, after a mining accident at Specimen Hill near Rushworth. He was being hauled up from a shaft after complaining of bad air, when he lost his grip on the rope. His painful death followed shortly after the resulting fall to the bottom of the mine.

Thomas Reese Lloyd, died 10 December, 1860, at Rushworth, aged just 38 years.

Eliza Courtney Mousley, born London, died at Rushworth in 1860, aged 35 years. Multiple generations of the Bell family (Charlie and Dick), formerly active in mining around Nuggetty Gully, are descended from Eliza Mousley. Locals Christine Borger and gold-seeker Peter Toohey are just two of those descendants, and family information passed down referred to Eliza's burial at the "old graveyard".

Henry Herbert Francis was born 25 September and died 11 October, 1860, at Rushworth, the infant son of Henry and Grace (nee Harvey) Francis.

Adolphus Amos Coath, born Rushworth 1861, son of Richard and Selina (nee Whicker) Coath, and died aged two days.

James Barr, born at Glasgow, died aged 35, circa 20 January 1861, having been found after an absence of three weeks and a search near Waranga. Death was assumed to have been due to malnourishment and exhaustion.

An elderly Irishman "who has been for some time residing in Dr Scott's house at Rushworth, was killed by being thrown out of a spring cart between the Five-Mile Creek [near Moora] and Rushworth on Saturday afternoon." So said the McIvor News, of 1 February, 1861.

A George Booth, died 2 February, 1861, at Rushworth. Incomplete records of the Rushworth cemetery list a George Booth, but in a grave numbered far higher than the earliest graves dug in 1861. This George Booth, passing in that year, may well rest in the old burial ground, not in the formal cemetery.

George Park's death was very interesting, with an element of mystery. The Waranga Chronicle of 16 July, 1874, related events going back to 1854.

"A few months ago, inquiries were made for one George Park, who was supposed to have been drowned in the Waranga lagoon some twenty years ago. The settlement of a large amount of property in Scotland was in suspense, and the matter was placed in the hands of Mr. Otto Berliner, of Melbourne, who placed himself in communication with the Police Department.

"Ultimately the matter was referred to Sergeant Wilkinson, who, by examining the old records at the Court House, Rushworth, was able to afford valuable information, which will be sent home [to the UK] next mail. It appears that a person, name unknown, was drowned in the Waranga swamp or lagoon in 1854, and that his description tallied with that of the missing George Park.

"Sergeant Halliday, of the Rushworth [police] Depot, who was at that time stationed on the Waranga goldfields, had also been referred to, and his recollection of the matter leads up to the belief that the man drowned in 1854 was the person inquired for. We are glad to learn that Sergeant Halliday and Sergeant Wilkinson have each been presented with a gratuity of two guineas for their exertions in the matter."

Whether the mystery man was Mr Park or someone else in 1854, it is quite likely that he was buried in the original graveyard.

The reference to Ah Yea's death (in Part 1 of this series)) is important as it is likely that more Chinese, names not known to many, and whose deaths were unlikely to make the newspapers or be reported to the Deaths Register in Melbourne, are buried in the original small reserve south of the Anglican church.

An unknown number of infants or stillborn children may also be buried there, with the information not sent to Melbourne for the central records.

The burial place of the 27 people named in this two-part series will never be officially known. Dying as they did in the first few years of European and Chinese settlement at Rushworth, they were laid to rest between 1853 and 1861, when Rushworth's first graveyard was in active use.

It is interesting to note that deaths at Whroo were followed by burials in Whroo's own cemetery, only occasionally at Rushworth. Where else in Victoria are two burial locations just eight kilometres apart?

NEWS FROM THE
OP-SHOP AND FOODBANK
BROUGHT TO YOU BY RUSHWORTH COMMUNITY SUPPORT INC.

Hi everyone, not long until Christmas now. Don't forget to check out the Op Shop for presents and clothing before you travel elsewhere as you might be surprised at what you find. Not only will purchases be easier on your pocket but you also provide funding for our local Rushworth Foodbank. Heaven knows, there are enough people at the moment who need help and the Foodbank volunteers always try to make sure there is something special around Christmas. If you feel you would like to donate money or goods to the Foodbank please visit them when they are open. Any contributions are very welcome.

I'm finding it hard to get into the Christmas spirit this year. However, I did decorate the Op Shop Community Tree which will be on display in the centre of town soon. It's surprising what a bit of fabric and some ingenuity can do. I'm looking forward to seeing what everyone else creates.

In the Little Green Shed is the most amazing extendable dining table. Made of some kind of New Zealand wood, it is very solid and seats six when it is closed up, but twelve when extended. Priced at $100 it's a real bargain. The Shed also has LOTS of pictures to suit all houses. Absolutely no excuse to sit around with plain white walls in your house. The more colour around you the better I think!

From a six to a twelve seater.

Amazingly in the Op Shop we have two wedding dresses. The one pictured is a size 16 and has a stiff petticoat and little circlet of flowers for the hair. It is only $60. The other dress is 2XL and only $40. If you also wanted a bridesmaid dress have a look at the one which would fit an 8-10 year old. It is brand new, white lace and $20. Can you believe it. It could also be a confirmation dress or party dress.

We have a number of dinner sets which take up a lot of room, so this fortnight we are reducing them to half price. The sets are different sizes so come down and check them out.

I have been asked to remind you that all our clothes racks are regularly refreshed. So check out the racks regularly and if you see something, grab it as it may not be there next time!

Lastly, a word of warning. A son of one of our volunteers had two snakes come into his shed last week and he only lives on the edge of town. The Joe Blakes are definitely out and about and wriggling around - so be careful.

Next edition Liz Buzza is writing our last poem of the year, so I am looking forward to that. Meanwhile, may you have full bellies and a happy smile.

THE CHRISTMAS TABLE
We have a lovely table that will go from six to twelve
To seat my Christmas guests into my mind I'll delve
Jenny's fat and Jimmy's thin
Next to one another they'll fit in.
Brother-in-law's a pompous bore,
Granny's deaf – won't hear his roar.
Now where to sit my sister Sue?
After wine she'll need the loo,
But certainly she'll be right merry
So I'll sit her next to cousin Cherry.
Baby Rose has her own high chair
So I'll squash her in anywhere.
Maybe next to Uncle Fred
With bright blue eyes and nose bright red.
A sulky teenager at the end
(should I invite his frowning friend?).
Dad and Uncle Tom together
They'll spend the whole time talking weather.
Auntie Jean's a bag of nerves
So lots of sherry she'll be served
And if she's next to Cousin John
She won't notice his awful pong.
That's all done I can see.
But, botheration, I've forgotten ME!!

Business opportunity

Waranga News edition of 30 October brought news of the leasing opportunity at the Community Co-op General Store. We promised to keep readers informed.

Co-op directors, headed by Jenni Weaver, have now engaged Ray White's Rochester agency to take enquiries. Stuart Wilson is the man to ask for on 0404 550 429.

Two sets of long-time friends

A chance meeting of two sets of friends was cause for conversation and excitement recently at the Colbo Pub. From the left Wil Hamilton (née Vickers) and Helen Gadsden (née Wright) have been friends since they were ten, and are now in their mid 70s. Carmen Troy of Colbo, recently welcomed her friend Elaine (from Gippsland) for an extended stay. The pair have been friends since they were thirteen and are now well into their 80s. So much to talk about!

Happy Halloween just for you!

Kevin McTaggart wasn't really expecting this for dinner at the Colbinabbin Country Hotel. Chef Clare dished up a very life-like severed arm for Kev's Halloween dinner, which wasn't all that lovingly received!

Mindful Mayhem at P-12

Rushworth Community House recently joined in Mindful Mayhem Day at Rushworth P-12 College. The occasion was held to contribute to the College’s program to raise money for Food Bank Victoria, and was deemed a roaring success!

The Community House provided calico sheets and paints for students to express their thoughts about where they live and the wider community as a whole.

Probably best seen in the full-colour online edition of the Waranga News, here is one of the student contributions:

“Keep Our Doors Open” campaign

In the last edition of the Waranga News, we featured a pictorial survey of some of the many activities conducted at Rushworth Community House (photo below). Neighbourhood and Community Houses perform similar functions across Victoria, offering services and activities that make a real contribution to the lives of people in the communities they serve.

Neighbourhood Houses Victoria is currently seeking additional annual funding of $11.7M from the State Government to avoid the closure of up to two hundred neighbourhood and community houses across Victoria.

Neighbourhood Houses CEO Keir Paterson recently noted that rising costs, growing community demand and eroded core funding are forcing houses across the state to cut hours, staff and programs.

“Years of underfunding has pushed almost half into deficit, leaving them at risk of closure,” he said.

Each week, more than 185,000 Victorians access community support and local services through the 400+ neighbourhood houses in the state. Many neighbourhood houses and community centres are grappling with increased community need due to cost of living pressures, while having to deal with cost increases themselves.

“Without urgent action, communities risk losing the safe, inclusive spaces thousands of Victorians rely on every week.

Rushworth Community House invites local residents to call in and fill out one of the support cards that are spear-heading the campaign.

Studying cheeses at the Community House

Cheese making is an artform practised by humans for more than seven thousand years one that has evolved into one of mankind’s greatest manufacturing activities.

However, despite the range of commercial products available today, there is still something special about making your own cheeses.

In mid-November, the Community House conducted a special two day cheese-making event using the Shire Hall kitchen, starting with a Friday demonstration session followed by two practical sessions on the following day.

During the Saturday morning session, students learned how to make Camembert, Danish Blue and Danish Feta cheeses.

Saturday afternoon saw the students make Halloumi, Cheddar, Cottage Cheese and some Mozzarella.

The event proved to be extremely popular and new classes may be run during 2026

Free health checks today

Students from La Trobe University will be conducting free health checks in Max’s Maze on Thursday 27 November (today).

The students will assess each person for critical factors including blood pressure, heart health and blood glucose levels.

Do yourself a favour and get checked!

Community support is critical to the success of the campaign, and House Manager Anita Pirie is keen to see that it succeeds locally.

“If the House was forced to reduce its transport, carer support and other activities due to a funding shortfall, many local people would be adversely affected”, she said.

Christmas closure dates

Rushworth Community House will be closed from Monday 22 December 2025 until Friday 9 January 2026.

The House will reopen on Monday, 12 January 2025. The Container Deposit Scheme will reopen on Tuesday, 13 January 2026.

Mosaics by Belinda Merrick at Tatura Community House

Be sure to pop in and see the current exhibition of stunning mosaics by local artist Belinda Merrick (pictured right)— a sparkling and meaningful display you won't want to miss.

While you're there, browse the range of Tatura merchandise — including tea towels, greeting cards, "I Love Tatura" badges, and hats. They make wonderful Christmas gifts and every purchase supports your local community house and its programs.

The Harvest Table is always open for sharing! If you have excess fruit, vegetables, herbs or preserves, please drop them off so others can enjoy them. They deeply appreciate any donations that help keep this community initiative thriving — it's a simple way of giving back and helping reduce food waste.

They're also on the lookout for volunteers to help create and maintain a beautiful outdoor area at the house. Whether you have a green thumb or simply like being outside, this could be a rewarding year-round project. It's a great way to connect with others and make a lasting difference in our shared space.

And finally, take a moment to read the article about the Neighbourhood Houses campaign — a statewide effort calling for increased State Government funding to Neighbourhood Houses like theirs to provide learning, connection and support for thousands of Victorians, but stronger investment is essential to keep that going.

Come by, get involved, and see what's happening at Tatura Community House — where community grows!

Cooks Corner

Learning to cheat

The older I get, the more I love time-saving, labour-saving ideas for cooking.

I've been lured into the world of frozen vegetables and marvelling at how quick it makes meal preparation and how little waste it produces. No more wilting or soggy vegetables in the drawer of my fridge. I hope our worms in the compost heap won't get hungry now I'm not feeding them as much.

Mind you, I still can't resist buying a bunch of fresh buk choi (Chinese cabbage) and as soon as sugar peas drop in price, I have to have a few handfuls of those. I ALWAYS have frozen peas as an absolute necessity for a quick wok of fried rice. My husband always has bags of No Name mixed vegetables to make up his dog's Roo, Rice and Veggie meals. I've found I can sneak some of those mixed vegetables into a pot of winter time soup, or to add to a white sauce to go with lamb shanks or some salmon steaks. One of my daughters swears by the frozen green beans which she uses for a Chinese dish comprised of minced pork or beef stir-fried in a hot wok so that the beans actually get a slight char to them.

There are several varieties of Asian stir-fry vegetables but at the moment I'm loving the ones labelled 'Thai' because they have water chestnuts, baby corn and sugar peas in amongst the mix.

I've also bought ready-made coleslaw (just the shredded vegetable mix - no dressing on it) and used it the other day to make a quick Vietnamese-type salad. Because we were eating the salad with pork, I added some grated apple to the mix. (The compost worms would've loved the apple cores to munch on).

INGREDIENTS for a Vietnamese-style dressing

2 tbsp lime juice
2 tbsp rice vinegar
1/4 cup fish sauce
1/4 cup peanut oil
1 tbsp white sugar
1/4 cup hot water
1 large garlic clove, finely chopped
1 red chilli, deseeded then very finely minced

To top the salad off . . .

1/2 cup peanuts, roasted unsalted chopped bunch of roughly torn coriander and mint

Glen

Vietnamese-style salad dressing. Nuoc Cham (good dipping sauce for dumplings)

Garden Hints & Tips

Dry Climate Gardening

The BOM hasn't been covering itself with glory in recent months, not just because of its controversial new website, but for some seemingly erratic weather predictions. After our dry winter we were promised a wetter than average spring, and then maybe not, and then maybe it will come later. To be fair, we could debate whether the problem is erratic forecasting or erratic weather – not surprising with El Ninos, La Ninas and Indian Ocean Dipoles thrown into the mix together with climate change effects. But despite the episodes of 'wetter than average' we do know that there's a high probability we will often experience long periods of dryness in this country, being the driest inhabited continent on the planet.

Gardening in dry climates requires a blend of ecological awareness and practical design. We might remember during the millennium drought in 2001-2010 it became fashionable to design gardens of succulents and pebbles, achieving the goal of water reduction but doing little for a flourishing ecosystem or habitat for wildlife. As global temperatures rise and drought cycles intensify, gardeners must turn to techniques that reduce water use while also being conscious of broader environmental wellbeing.

In many ways dry climate gardening shares a common foundation with regenerative or rewilding practices, in that it works with natural processes rather than against them. The goal is to achieve resilience, conserve resources and promote healthier ecosystems capable of thriving under arid conditions.

A key principle of dry climate gardening is the strategic use of drought-tolerant plants—species adapted to survive on minimal moisture through deep root systems, waxy or silver foliage, and efficient transpiration controls. Native plants are especially well suited, especially regionally appropriate species, having evolved over millennia to match local rainfall patterns, soils, and temperature extremes. Importantly, they reduce the need for irrigation, fertilisers, and pest control. Mulching with gravel, bark, or organic matter further suppresses evaporation, improving the soil's ability to retain what little water it receives.

Clearly best practice for water conservation in the garden is to encourage natural vegetation to reassert itself. But, of course, being gardeners who sometimes like the challenge of growing things in less than ideal conditions, many of us still set our sights on some thirstier specimens – especially if they offer us a spectacular flower or foliage. In these cases thoughtful placement, such as grouping plants by water needs and creating shade with other shrubs or climbing plants on pergolas, will maximise water efficiency as well as creating attractive, layered landscapes.

Another important factor in retaining moisture in your garden, whichever garden type you opt for, is soil restoration, since healthy soil acts as a sponge, storing water and supporting microbial life essential for plant resilience. Allowing leaf litter and fallen branches to decompose in place enriches the soil and encourages a diverse web of insects, birds, and small mammals.

It's not surprising that the garden is the first place to suffer water restrictions during a prolonged dry period and for many people the response is to just turn off the taps and conserve water for the 'important' things. But we should remember it's the green stuff that gives off oxygen and enhances our wellbeing both physically and mentally. Planning how to keep it alive and healthy in a hot dry summer is as important as ensuring our aircon is working to keep us cool and refreshed!

Shiny Everlasting (Xerochrysum viscosum) is well-suited to our dry climate.

Handy Hints

- from Lyn Rumble

Hi there,

Repurposing or Re-using everyday items - or quick and easy solutions to general household issues that maybe had not even occurred to you – but this is what I like to do. Of course saving a bit of cash on the grocery bill always helps too!

In this issue – I'm starting my Christmas Preparations early - so here goes the Christmas prompts for you too – hope it helps to alleviate the last minute panic!

 How about the 1st order of Christmas is to think of others not so fortunate as us all. Donate to the Op Shop those never worn trousers, shoes or shirts, donate to the Food Bank a few grocery items that might mean perhaps a decent meal for someone, or if you know someone yourself – why not treat them to a morning tea at the local café especially for Christmas. I'd love to hear of some of your ways that you can make it really special for someone at Christmas!

 Storing wrapping paper long term – Save some of your used toilet rolls and get some aluminium foil from the kitchen drawer, and cut yourself off a one and half times square of foil. Cut a slit down the length of the toilet roll, and wrap the foil around the outside of the toilet roll and fold over the ends inside of the roll. Sellotape the edges inside the roll to ensure they stay secure. Now you have a decorative holder to just clip around your roll of wrapping paper, and will keep it nice and secure.

 Chocolate anyone! Cakes and desserts look better with chocolate on top! I could not agree more – but making it look pretty is not that easy. Just get your favourite bar of chocolate, and a sturdy potato peeler, and scrape off shavings from the edge of the bar into a dish. Place the shavings on or around your dessert for decoration.

 Buying gifts well in advance is a terrific idea as well as taking opportunity for sales well before Christmas – but hiding from prying eyes is always an issue! If you have a garage and on the top of your shelves you have some old storage boxes – from old appliances that you keep just in case – that makes an ideal place! Too high for young kids, and who would look in a grotty old cardboard box for a new present!

 If you're planning on going out for dinner with friends to the local (or special) restaurant – book ahead in plenty of time to avoid disappointment for the day and time you wanted. An absolute must by end of November – then no-one gets embarrassed to say they had forgot!

Fire in the forest

Over the years, the Rushworth forest has thankfully been spared from a major conflagration. One of the reasons might be that box ironbark forests are less susceptible to big fires than other forest types. The main species of trees do not shed their bark each year, leading to a build-up of fuel that can be found in other areas. The understorey of box-ironbark forests is also limited, compared to other forest types.

Evidence suggests that most wildfires on public land across the box-ironbark forests are small. “For example, between 1980/81 and 1995/96, almost 80% of the 800 wildfires recorded on public land across the Box-Ironbark region were less than 5 ha in size, and only around 15 exceeded 100 ha.”¹

However, there is no room for complacency. It would seem that the danger is increasing in the local area due to the hotter weather conditions that have been experienced in recent decades.

1939 Fire Season

Not much seems to have been documented about the history of fires in the Rushworth forest until the advent of Forests Commission Victoria (FCV) meant that more records were prepared. The 1938-9 fire season was one of the worst on record. The seriousness of these fires prompted the FCV to get its staff in each region of Victoria to prepare a report on what had happened locally. Nicholas Power was the responsible officer for the Rushworth area, and his report is held by the Public Records Office.²

Power reported on three small fires in Whroo and Moora in December 1938, including one on Christmas Day, but none of these burnt more than 3 acres (1.2 ha). Some of the staff who attended these fires included Foreman J J Hageman and Leading Hand R Pettifer. There were ominous signs when a larger fire broke out near Moora, in the parish of Whroo, a week before Christmas. The area had been thinned by FCV staff just three years earlier, but it still burned strongly. It turned out to be the largest local forest fire that summer, at 33.5 acres (14 hectares).

Black Friday

13 January 1939 became known in Victoria as Black Friday. It is often likened to the dramatic fires of 1983 and 2009 which devastated large parts of the state. FCV Officer Power reported the weather was extreme – the day was “the worst in history” for fire danger, with temperatures of 113 degrees Fahrenheit (45 degrees Celsius) with the wind blowing 60 miles per hour (100 kph). A fire started at Bailieston in the parish of Wirrate, with the cause unknown. The FCV were notified by a sleeper hewer working in the area at the time. You would have to question why someone would be working cutting sleepers in those conditions!

Power suspected that the fire may have started from a smouldering underground root still alight from burning off operations in September 1938. You would think a fire would be unstoppable given the weather conditions, but the seven brave FCV staff managed to contain the fire to 16 acres (6.5 ha). The rest of the state was not so lucky. Two million hectares (4.9 m acres) were burnt, 71 people died and 650 structures were destroyed.

In the wake of the 1939 fires, no money was available for work in the Rushworth forest as all available funds were directed towards the restoration of large areas of Gippsland forests.

Humans at fault

Sadly, Power’s reports indicate that few, if any, of the fires were the result of natural causes. He postulated that the causes included deliberate lighting of some of the fires, and carelessness in other cases. The Christmas Day fire near Whroo appeared to be one of the former, and Power initiated extra patrols by his men to try to stop the practice in its tracks. There had been other suspicious fires in the locality. The suspected culprit in that case was a Whroo resident who had recently been released from a mental institution but he was later exonerated.

In 1941 Power was a prosecution witness in a case where the defendant was fined 20 pounds ($40) for deliberately lighting two fires south of Whroo. Shortly beforehand, Power had denied one George Mason a licence to cut sleepers in the forest. The fires were lit, perhaps in retribution, as the defendant was riding his bicycle south to Bailieston after consuming 25-30 pots (his own estimate) at Rushworth hotels. It was a wonder he could ride at all, let alone commit arson.

A Name from the Past

John Kennedy (senr.) died at 93

In the previous edition we noted the death of John Kennedy junior in 1914 at just 53 years. John Kennedy senior was to live to 93, with his death reported precisely 100 years ago.

Noting that Kennedy Road and Egan’s Bridge Road run towards Cornella, south of Colbo, these names are linked to pioneer settlers Kennedy and Egan, mentioned in this report from the Rushworth Chronicle of 2 October, 1925.

“One of the oldest residents of the Colbinabbin district, in the person of Mr John Kennedy, passed away at his residence, Phillips Street, Rushworth, on Wednesday, 23rd September, at the age of 93 years, after being in ill-health for some time past.

He had a remarkably strong constitution and never had a day’s sickness until about five years ago, when the death of his son affected his health, and he had been in ill-health ever since.

The late Mr Kennedy was born in Tipperary, Ireland, and came to Victoria in the early fifties, and spent some time in Melbourne and Donnybrook. He then moved to Tallarook. After residing there for some years, in company with the late Messrs Egan and Healy, selected adjoining blocks on what then formed part of the Colbinabbin Estate in 1875, where he resided until eighteen months ago, when owing to failing health, he removed to Rushworth.

The late Mr Kennedy was very much esteemed and respected and although he had lived more than the average span of life, his death is deeply regretted.

He leaves a family of five sons and two daughters, one being married (Mrs J. Howe), also 25 grandchildren and great grandchildren, two sons having predeceased him.

The remains were interred in the Colbinabbin Cemetery on Friday last week, the Rev. Father Tehan officiating at the graveside. The coffin was borne to its last resting place by his six grandsons (John, Thomas, Gerald, J.C. and T. Kennedy, and J. Howe).”

The Colbinabbin Estate refers to a large parcel of land once occupied for grazing by squatters, and subsequently broken up with blocks available to selectors, including Mr Kennedy.

ON THE BRINK

Looking at endangered or extinct flora and fauna.

Australia has a large number of frog species and, as previously mentioned in this column, many are threatened or endangered due to a variety of factors such as habitat loss, disease (especially chytridiomycosis), invasive species, climate change and extreme weather events. Australia is doing a lot of scientific and on-the-ground conservation work to protect its endangered frog species, including the following research and practical action project at La Trobe University's extensive wetlands sanctuary in Bundoora:

Bringing an iconic species back from the brink

With a call like a revving motorbike, the Growling Grass Frog was once a loud and proud Darebin local, and a vital part of our wetland ecosystem.

Today, he's silent.

Across Victoria, Growling Grass Frogs, affectionately called Growlers, are disappearing. They've already vanished from more than half of the places they once called home. And like many of our native species, their absence exposes a deeper issue.

Their silence signals the breakdown of fragile ecosystems that support not just frogs, but countless plants and animals. This damage also affects the health of our local environment – and ultimately, our community too.

At La Trobe University's Nangak Tamboree Wildlife Sanctuary, staff and researchers are listening – and taking action. Using proven conservation methods, they're preparing to restore wetland habitats and give endangered species a fighting chance. But they can't do it alone. The Sanctuary plans to launch Stage One of the Growling Grass Frog Reintroduction Project in early 2026. Community support will play a crucial role in bringing this work to life, with every dollar going directly to the frogs' reintroduction and habitat restoration.

To welcome Growlers back to Nangak Tamboree, the team will create special rocky "frog beaches" – warm, sunlit spaces where the frogs can defend against chytrid fungus, a deadly disease wiping out frogs worldwide. They'll also plant a rich mix of native aquatic vegetation to support breeding and provide safe shelter, while expanding disease monitoring programs to protect the health of every frog reintroduced to the wetlands.

These are the first crucial steps in a long-term rewilding effort that will offer a safe haven for native animals and strengthen biodiversity in Melbourne's north.

Nangak Tamboree isn't just a sanctuary. It's part of a living, biodiverse waterway that connects La Trobe University with Darebin Creek and beyond. Working alongside the Wurundjeri Woi-wurrung Narrap Rangers, the team is combining traditional and contemporary land management to care for Country – creating a future that's both ecologically strong and culturally grounded.

This project will benefit more than frogs. It's a first step toward reintroducing other threatened species, including the Eastern Barred Bandicoot and the Fat-tailed Dunnart. The Sanctuary's predator-free environment, protected under a Trust for Nature Covenant, ensures these animals have a secure future here.

When we listen to what nature is telling us – and act together with care and urgency – we can create lasting change.

The Growling Grass Frog can't ask for help. But you can answer the call.

You can help Nangak Tamboree Wildlife Sanctuary restore vital habitat, plant native species, build nesting places, and ensure it remains a thriving home for the native animals that depend on it. Donate before Friday 19 December 2025 to help restore their habitat, revive the wetlands, and bring this iconic species back from the brink.

Birds of a Feather

Australian Boobook

The Australian Boobook is Australia's smallest owl and can be found throughout the Australian mainland where there are suitable trees for it to use to roost and nest. A different species is found in Tasmania, the Tasmanian Boobook which is more closely related to the New Zealand species – the Morepork.

Our Boobook is more often heard than seen. It's double tone call with the second note a little lower can be often heard in the evening or early morning. Early settlers thought that it sounded a little like the European cuckoo and the name boobook is of course derived from its call. It is also called the Mopoke which is a similar name to the Morepork – perhaps that bird's name reflecting the New Zealand accent !

Even though the Boobook is a night bird it can sometimes be seen in the daytime where it may be harassed by other birds, particularly honeyeaters. Recently I saw one in a street tree surrounded by some very loud blue-faced honeyeaters but the boobook ignored them and eventually the honeyeaters moved away and allowed the owl to sleep.

Boobooks have a varied diet of small invertebrates such as beetles and moths but their main diet is small birds, rats and mice. Even though boobooks are only about the size of a crested pigeon they can take birds such as starlings and also ring-tailed possums and rabbits. Boobooks and other owls which eat rats and mice are threatened by the use of second generation rodenticides – rat poisons - and there is a campaign to have these chemicals removed from the shelves of hardware stores. Owls that eat dead poisoned rats will also die from the poison.

Boobooks nest in tree hollows, often in the same hollow for a number of years. They have even been known to evict galahs! The male will line the nest and the female will incubate the eggs and look after the small chicks, seldom leaving the nest as the male will bring the food for her and the chicks.

Please be careful when using rat poisons as we want to look after our natural rat killers which give us an evocative sound of the bush at night.

The Rushy Birder.

Fifty years ago in our district....

Looking through the pages of past 'Rushworth Chronicles'
.....compiled by former district resident Alan McLean

Officials from the Mines Department, the Lands Department and the Shire of Waranga met to seek common ground to achieve the preservation of the Balaclava Mine at Whroo. Mr Les Garraway from Echuca, on behalf of the Tourism Department, addressed the meeting enthusiastically about preservation, in stark contrast to a report a few years earlier from the Mines Department which had declared "the mine should be blown up". Mr Garraway planned to meet with the Forests Commission and the Land Conservation Council, to seek an overall State Government view on preservation. (Sounds like a case of too many departments spoiling the mine.)

Shire of Waranga

After an approach from the Murchison Public Hall Committee, the Shire decided to seek grants or subsidy to build a pre-school at Murchison. Rather optimistically, it was hoped that Goulburn and Rodney Shires might contribute, as well as other community organisations in Murchison.

Community

Service clubs were in collecting mode, with Rushworth Apex gathering empty beer bottles placed on footpaths, and Rushworth Lions collecting 1150 bales of hay.

Stanhope Apex contacted the Shire, offering to assist in construction of a proposed children's playground in Railway Street.

Youth Club President Ted Whitehead was concerned that with the long-discussed community centre for Rushworth having failed, the club was still in the derelict RSL Hall. He proposed that the Shire should consider some fittings and equipment to be positioned in the Shire Hall, on a temporary basis.

The Anglican Ladies Guild at Murchison held a big fete and extended thanks to their counterparts from Rushworth who had donated, attended and patronised the neighbouring event.

Excitement over the opening of the new rooms for Rushworth - Colbinabbin Senior Citizens had continued after opening celebrations were marred by wet weather. Donations were appreciated, with some confusion over whether an old piano had come from the High School or the now defunct Choral Society in the town, or possibly both! Meals-on-Wheels service was growing thanks to a band of volunteer drivers distributing meals prepared at the new centre.

Murchison Senior Citizens discussed the prospect of buying a set of indoor bowls, while anticipating the forthcoming Christmas luncheon at the Murchison East Motel. Ian Hammond addressed the meeting on first aid for the elderly.

AGM of Rushworth Fire Brigade Ladies Auxiliary elected Marj Morgan as President,

Nancy Cruz as vice-president, D. Lloyd as secretary and E. Hawking treasurer. (Marj and Nancy will enjoy reading this.)

People

Greg and Denise Muir announced the purchase of Caygill Motor Engineering Works from Charlie and Lucy Caygill. (The business was on the property now occupied by the service station.)

Miriam Poulson of Rushworth and David Fisher of Ocean Grove, together with the four parents, announced their engagement.

Mrs Constance Heily, 87, had died in her sleep at Rushworth. She was the widow of Bruce Heily, who was a son of the prominent Dr. John Vickers Heily, who had served the whole district for over forty years in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

Noel "Hoppy" Merryfull was photographed at the Criterion Hotel, trying to find a tune on bagpipes belonging to Jack Wylie. Apparently he did not have enough wind.

A kitchen tea was announced for Miss Lynette Perry, ahead of her marriage to the other Alan McLean.

Football

At Elmore, a meeting of the Heathcote District Football League welcomed delegates from Stanhope Football Club who delivered a letter seeking affiliation with the league, subject to gaining release from the Goulburn Valley League. The meeting also learned that Tooborac expected to be able to field three teams in 1976, which would make a seven-team league if Rushworth continued to play. This put Rushworth delegates in an awkward position, having to report a club decision of "eight teams or go elsewhere in 1976".

Cricket

Batting by Rushworth A-grade was described as "pathetic", making just 54 in reply to Lancaster's modest 106. One unnamed player made it to double figures. Bowling a second time cousins Graeme Hageman (2/3) and Chris Hageman (2/7) did well to have Lancaster 7 wickets for 63, but Rushworth's batsmen cost then the match.

In junior cricket, Rushworth's 65 runs were no match for Tatura's 97. Craig Beck made 33, half the score for the Tigers, G. Pearce (Graeme or Geoff?) adding nine. Bset bowling came from Paul Gleeson 3/26, Pearce 2/4 and Donald Potter 2/12.

Tennis

Just after the end of World War II, Rushworth Tennis Club had held an annual Easter tournament, with great success and many visiting participants, despite the absence of changing rooms and showers. A club meeting decided that it would not hold a tournament in Easter 1976. Rain in the 1975 spring meant that the replacement of one bank of courts had not been successful, and they would not be up to scratch by Easter.

Over the Christmas - New Year period, there were to be tournaments and coaching class opportunities at Kyabram and Shepparton.

Bowls

Associate A3 team at Rushworth lost to Hill Top, though Elsie Laurie, Mabel Boundy, Joan Whitehead and Carrie Johansen formed a winning rink. Peg Jell, Vera Pettifer, Mary Bradley, Lucy Munsey, Jean Branson, Doris Barlow, Linda Duke and Jean Laurie were not quite so successful. (Miss Munsey is Mrs Harper and lives in Tatura, and is a keen reader of Waranga News.)

Stanhope men were not bowling well enough to beat Tatura Gold in A1 pennant, though Aub Downing's rink and Norm Hadfield's four had finished ahead of their opponents.

Stanhope A2 had a narrow 101 to 100 victory over Murchison Gold, with only John Stokes's rink successful. The margin of that rink covered the losses of the other three.

Mixed social bowls at Stanhope were won by A. Vaughan, I Junge, M. Flanagan and E. Milthorpe.

Auto Club

Arthur Garvey and Peter Davidson backed off their criticism of Rushworth traders for failure to support the Auto Club. Their complaints were revised to say "some" traders, acknowledging that support had been received. (And no doubt some earlier criticism of his initial remarks.)

The club announced an Old Time Dance in the Shire Hall, with music by Emms Orchestra, entry $1.

St Mary's years 3/4 Camp at Billabong Ranch

Last week, St Mary's Year 3/4 students and staff attended their 2025 camp at Billabong Ranch, just outside Echuca.

The students demonstrated outstanding respect, participation and manners throughout the experience, and school staff provided exceptional care and leadership.

A heartfelt thank-you to the teachers who spent two nights away from their own families to make this memorable camp possible.

P-12 students support Colbinabbin Landcare Day

On Tuesday 11 November Mr Daff, Ms McCloy and four very enthusiastic Year 7 students attended the Colbinabbin Primary School Landcare Day. It was exceptionally good. Our P-12 College students assisted with the workshops where they could, being particularly helpful in the prep and kinder classes. Amelia overcame her spider phobia during the spider session. Thanks for helping, Amelia A, Ruby G, Zara S and Stella B from 7/8A.

Looks like Amelia liked getting closer to the spiders than Ruby did.

Wriggly Worms Incursion for P-12 Prep to Year 3

On Tuesday 12 November, the Year Prep to 3 students had a very engaging workshop about worms in the garden and the importance of composting for the good of our gardens and to reduce the methane in our environment. The students are now looking forward to adding their lunch scraps to our school worm farm and can tell you lots of fun facts about worms. Thanks to Aga and Grassroots sustainably for providing the informative and engaging workshop.

Lily didn't mind handling the wriggly worms during the recent visit from Grassroots sustainability, where students learnt the importance of worms in the garden.

St Marys’ academic excellence shines at in- augural Sandhurst Awards

by Vin Ryan (Principal)

A small contingent of staff, students and families travelled to The All Seasons in Bendigo on Thursday 20 November for the inaugural Sandhurst Awards. The Sandhurst Awards is a day to recognise the achievements of individuals throughout the diocese.

Mason received his ‘Inspirational Student Learner’ award for the effort that he puts into all aspects of his learning. He has a go at all tasks assigned to him and is making amazing progress.

Alia received her ‘Spirit of Sandhurst’ award for her interactions with others within our school. Alia is kind, friendly and welcoming toward all of her peers and demonstrates a positive mind-set toward all elements of her learning.

Mrs Fiske-Kealy received the ‘Curriculum Teaching Excellence’ award (of which there were 19 nominations within the 51 primary schools). Ange’s problem-solving persistence has allowed her to plan and implement exceptional quality teaching (especially in InitialLit literacy and Ochre numeracy) into her F/1/2 composite. There is not a minute to spare in her classroom, with all learners engaged and making amazing progress!

We could not be prouder of our award recipients. Well-done St Mary’s Rushworth for dedication to academic and wellbeing excellence and learner growth!

St Mary’s Fete

Last Friday, the amazing Parents and Friends Committee hosted the annual St Mary’s Fete, drawing strong attendance from across the community. Festivities included a raffle wheel, student-run stalls, a jumping castle, go-karts, dunk the Principal and colour run.

The event not only celebrated community spirit but also raised funds that will directly support camp and excursion opportunities ensuring Rushworth students have access to the same enriching experiences available to children in larger regional centres.

Proud parents, teachers and students - Shannon, Mason, Angela, Vin, Kellie and Alia.

Together for Humanity

St Mary’s welcomed renowned artist Emma Stenhouse to the school last week as part of an artist-in-residence program. Over the course of the week, Emma used art as an engaging platform to promote inclusion and cultural understanding. Staff, families, parish members and students all took part in a series of meaningful learning experiences that enriched our community and deepened our shared appreciation of diversity.

Words could not be as effective as the big smile on Siena Chillingsworth’s face to describe the popularity of St Mary’s breakfast pancakes !

Canberra Camp for Stanhope Primary School

by Micaela Rosenberg

While students and staff joined with members of the Stanhope RSL Sub-Branch and Stanhope community to honour those who paid the supreme sacrifice for this year's Remembrance Day Service, our Grade 5 and 6 students were paying their respects at the Australian War Memorial in Canberra.

Students and staff from our Small Schools' Cluster (Stanhope, Girgarre, Lancaster and Merrigum Primary Schools) were fortunate to travel to Canberra where they were immersed in history, science, sports and politics.

Among the highlights were: a self-guided tour of ANZAC Parade; attending the Remembrance Day Service at the War Memorial; a tour of Parliament House; an exploration of Questacon; a visit to the Australian Institute of Sport; a guided tour of the Royal Australian Mint.

The students were privileged to attend the Last Post Ceremony, where our Grade 6 student Bonni laid a wreath at the Pool of Reflection. This ceremony is held and live-streamed each day to honour the life of a member of the armed services. You may view these online via YouTube by searching for Flight Sergeant Sidney Arthur Brown 12/11/2025.

Amid their busy four-day schedule, students also had time for mini-golf! A trip up to the Mount Ainslie lookout was able to provide a bird's eye view of Canberra's

P-12 Graduation marks end of school for Year 12s

The stage was set for the Year 12 students and their families to celebrate graduation at the Moama Bowling Club last Wednesday night.

The Class of 2025 looked resplendent in their formal attire and were surrounded by proud family members and close friends.

The College’s new Captains, Emily McLean and Tildy Brew, were warmly received as emcees for the evening.

Principal Jamie Daff congratulated the cohort, acknowledging that they had begun their secondary education during a global pandemic, faced interruptions caused by the 2022 floods, and navigated ongoing staffing changes within a small rural school. He noted that these challenges had only strengthened their determination to succeed, and succeed they had—each in their own individual way.

Following a delicious main course, VCE

Coordinator Taylah Carmichael presented the Awards of Excellence.

Award winners

Congratulations were extended to the following students:

Teaghan Robertson – English, Maths, Technology, Science (Psychology), Health & Physical Education

Grace Barlow – Science (Ag/Hort)

Jemma Albrey – Technology

Mindful Mayhem on World Kindness Day

On World Kindness Day the college celebrated what was to have been a National Mental Health Week event – Mindful Mayhem.

It was a wonderful community collaboration with support received from Rushworth Community House, Waranga Community Health, Headspace (Shepparton), Njernda (Echuca) and the local Rushworth CFA and SES.

The College also took this event as an opportunity to give back to an organisation that supports us a lot, and that is Foodbank Victoria. We did this through the Food Bank Food Fight, and as a college we are very proud of the $3,227.00 we raised. This amount will enable Foodbank Victoria to provide Victorian families with over 6,000 meals. The Food ROCKs program at the College relies heavily on its support to offer the breakfast, recess and lunch program that we do.

Thanks to Its Party Time, Shepparton, Rushworth Community House, Headspace and Njernda students from Year Prep to 12 had plenty of fun activities to participate in. Students then enjoyed a lovely BBQ cooked by the Rushworth SES.

Whilst this was happening some of the best fundraisers got the opportunity to ‘slime’ the teachers – Mr Bovell, Jo James and Grant Mitchell all volunteered!!

Then it was time to assemble the tubs of slime, cordial and sponge ‘fruit’ for the Foodbank Food Fight – in which no actual food was harmed.

Students then enjoyed the messiest fun we have seen in a long time! A huge thank you to the Rushworth CFA who came along to ‘clean off’ the students before they got on the buses.

As a college we want to acknowledge there may have been some confusion locally about whether the funds were going to our own Rushworth Foodbank, but in this case it wasn't. FoodBank Food Fights are held very regularly in schools around Australia. As a College we want to acknowledge the support we do get from our own Rushworth Foodbank and have been happy to run projects to support it in the past and hope to continue this in the future.

(Above) The axe throw was a popular activity

Huddy enjoyed sliming everyone.

(Left) Headspace had a range of activities and encouraged social participation through outdoor games – all good things for a positive mental health.

Mons Frank Marriott ~ 18 January 1938 - 24 November 2025

The Diocese of Sandhurst mourns death of a ‘giant of the Diocese’. Monsignor Francis ‘Frank’ Marriott OAM, beloved Bendigo-born Catholic priest and community leader who died peacefully on Sunday, 24 November 2025, after sixty-three years of priestly ministry and a lifetime of service to the Church and the wider community he loved.

For more than six decades, Monsignor Frank’s influence reached far beyond parish walls. He made an enormous contribution to central Victoria, strengthening local institutions, championing social cohesion, supporting families, engaging in grassroots activism and offering pastoral care to people from every background and walk of life. His leadership in education, interfaith relations, civic advocacy, social justice and community wellbeing made him a respected and unifying presence across the region.

Raised in Elmore after his early years in Bendigo, he remained deeply connected to local life and, just as passionately, connected to the Collingwood Magpies. After boarding at Assumption College, Kilmore, he entered the seminary in 1956 and was ordained at Sacred Heart Cathedral on 29 June 1962. Throughout his career, Mons. Marriott served in thirteen parishes (including St Mary’s Rushworth where he made his mark on the field playing with the Rushworth Football Club).

He held key leadership roles, including Vicar General, Chancellor, Administrator of Sacred Heart Cathedral and Diocesan Administrator. But his contribution extended far beyond ecclesial titles.

As a young priest, he joined the Young Christian Workers (YCW), calling it ‘the greatest learning experience of my life’; and attributed its ‘See, Judge, Act’ approach to shaping his lifelong commitment to empowering ordinary people.

He helped establish TEAMS of Our Lady in Sandhurst to support marriages and families and acted as Chaplain to various groups and communities throughout the Diocese.

Innovation and courage marked his ministry. In the 1970s, as Parish Priest of Heathcote, he appointed the Diocese’s first lay school principal and created its first Lay School Board, securing the future of Holy Rosary Primary School. He later co-founded and chaired the Heathcote Citizens Action Committee, which successfully opposed the State Government’s proposal for a toxic liquid-waste dump at Dargile Forest, a defining community victory.

Mons Marriott was also active in the national arena; serving as Chair of the National Council of Priests 1976-1982 and was an inaugural board member of the St Peter’s Centre for the Renewal of Priests in Canberra.

In 2014, amid heated anti-mosque protests in Bendigo, Mons Marriott again stepped forward for the common good, co-founding and chairing the Bendigo Interfaith Council to promote understanding and cooperation across diverse faiths. For Monsignor Marriott, it was all about focusing on the commonalities. ‘Spirituality – a fundamental process of a human having contact with the non-Human, with God,’ he once said.

Even after retirement, his commitment never wavered. He ministered in Loddon and Middleton prisons, served on the boards of the Sandhurst Priests’ Retirement Foundation and the Sandhurst Solidarity Fund, and continued to accompany people in need with characteristic humility and humour.

His service was widely recognised. In 2012, he was named a Protonotary Apostolic – one of only six Australians to hold the honour at the time. In 2022, he received the Medal of the Order of Australia (OAM) for his service to the Catholic Church and the community.

Many will remember Mons Marriott for his sharp mind, his love of history, his deep curiosity and his unmistakable sense of humour. His advice to future priests captured his spirit:

“Have a great love for history – and bring a good sense of humour.”

Monsignor Frank Marriott was, in every sense, a man for all – a steadfast priest, a principled community advocate and a generous presence in the lives of thousands across central Victoria. He will be profoundly missed. May he rest in peace.

A Requiem Mass in memory of Monsignor Frank will be held at 6.00 pm on Tuesday 25 November at Sacred Heart Cathedral.

His Funeral Mass will be held at Sacred Heart Cathedral at 1pm on Wednesday 3 December 2025.

living the GOOD LIFE

"The Wind Is Driving Me Mad"

November is a notoriously windy month in our part of the world. You can hear it in the small talk.

We might mention how much rain we've had, or how hot it's been, but lately the wind is the main character in every conversation. It knocks over bins, rips pegs off the clothesline, ruins carefully planned picnics, and turns a pleasant game of bowls or golf into a day of frustration. Out on the farms it plays with nerves and livelihoods; flattening crops that were looking promising a week earlier, snapping branches, and testing the iron on the sheds.

Last weekend, as we grumbled about the wind, people in Darwin and across the Northern Territory were on cyclone watch. The very same thing we find irritating is, just a few thousand kilometres away, a serious threat. Here, the wind is a nuisance. There, it's something you track on the radar with a knot in your stomach.

Maybe a name will tame it

We give the wind names, as if that might tame it a little: Tracy, Yasi, Debbie. In Victoria, Total Fire Ban days usually come with the words "hot northerly winds," and suddenly a breeze isn't just a breeze; it's fuel for fear. Someone who has been badly frightened is said to have "had the wind put up them." On certain days the whole town seems a little more irritable, restless, and tired. Windy weather gets into our heads as well as our hair.

Wind is an invisible force that can sustain us, comfort us, inspire us, annoy us—and sometimes destroy us. We never actually see the wind itself. We only see what it does. The trees lean sideways, the dust lifts off the paddocks, the clouds race each other across the sky. The wind is invisible, but its effects aren't. The same wind that rattles our windows also fills the sails of ships, turns wind turbines, cools us on a hot night, and carries the rain we pray for.

We respond

There's an ancient saying that "the wind blows where it wants to; you hear the sound of it, but you don't know where it comes from or where it's going" (John 3:8). Long before weather apps and satellite images, people knew this: the wind is one of those things we live with but don't control. We can't switch it off, only respond to it.

And respond we do. We build windbreaks and plant rows of trees. We learn which parts of the house rattle most and stuff an old towel under the door. We move the barbecue to the more sheltered corner of the yard. Farmers change their harvesting plans; firefighters watch forecasts; event organisers reluctantly decide to "call it off and try again next week."

A lot of life feels like that too

There are "winds" that blow through our lives that we can't see, only feel: a sudden change at work, a diagnosis, a family falling out, the mood of the nation, the constant stream of news and social media outrage. None of these are visible in the way a fallen branch is, but they bend us all the same. Sometimes the wind is exhilarating; a cool southerly after a scorching day, a new idea that brings hope. At other times it's just plain wearing, roaring in our ears at three in the morning, refusing to let us rest. Our thoughts can feel like that; restless, circling, noisy.

So what helps when "the wind is driving me mad"?

We can remember that wind is seasonal. November is windy around here. In the same way, sometimes we're just in a blustery, unsettled patch of life. Naming that can help. Instead of thinking "this is how it will always be," we can say, "this is just the season I'm in."

Look for shelter

We can look for shelter. On wild days, a simple thing like sitting in the lee of a shed makes a difference. In life, our "shelters" might be a trusted friend, a quiet walk, a good book, a favourite piece of music, or the routine of turning up to the same community week after week.

We can also make sure the important things are tied down. In a storm, you secure what you don't want to lose. In a busy, windy season, that might mean protecting time with the people who matter most, keeping small rituals like shared meals, or holding onto the values you don't want blown away—kindness, honesty, generosity—even when everything else is swirling.

But for people of faith there is one more thing.

There's another old story about wind and fear. Jesus and his friends are out on the lake when a sudden storm blows up. The waves crash over the boat. The seasoned fishermen panic. Jesus, somehow, is asleep in the stern. When they finally shake him awake, he speaks a few words and the wind dies down. The disciples are left asking, "Who is this, that even the wind and the waves obey him?" (Mark 4: 41)

We're not alone

Most of us don't get that kind of instant miracle. The storms still blow, both in the sky and in our lives. But the heart of the story is this: we are not alone in the boat. God does not always spare us the wild weather, but God is with us in it—steadier than our fear, closer than the air in our lungs.

So if the November wind is driving you mad, you're not just a grumpy local complaining about the breeze. You're a human being living in a windy world, where unseen forces are always swirling around us. May you find shelter when you need it, courage when the gusts pick up, and the quiet assurance that, whatever the weather, God is with you in the storm and will not let you go.

This is the gospel, and it's good news.

Pre-loved Christmas

New research from Vinnies Victoria reveals nine in ten Aussies are open to receiving a pre-loved gift this Christmas

Australians are gift-wrapping up a new kind of Christmas this year, with new research revealing three in four (76%) are open to buying op-shop gifts this festive season and nearly nine in ten (89%) open to receiving a pre-loved pressie.

Pre-loved gifts offer three in one; it's a gift for your wallet, a gift for your loved one, and a gift for the planet and community. Vinnies Victoria operates over 120 shops across Victoria, generating a retail turnover of more than $60 million. The network continues to grow, with twelve new stores opened in the past twelve months, including four PopUP by Vinnies locations. Through their purchases, Vinnies shoppers have helped fund $9.5 million food vouchers, 800,000 meals, and $6.4 million in cost-of-living support – a remarkable contribution made possible by thousands of dedicated volunteers.

Once Upon a Time

The Story of Princess Grace, Prince Ranier and their Family by J. Randy Taraborrelli (Sidgwick& Jackson 2003)

When Grace Kelly left the fame of the movie world and Hollywood to marry Prince Ranier of Monaco, we all thought what a fairy-tale life she was stepping into. That illusion hid the sometimes harsh reality of a difficult marriage, a difficult husband and a difficult family and the end of her successful career as an award winning actress.

Born into a handsome American family with social-climbing parents and an autocratic father whom she always felt considered her as second-best, Grace almost certainly felt that to become a royal princess would redeem her in the eyes of her father, but she barely knew Ranier or the people and culture of his country. Unfortunately Ranier was an autocrat like her father and his people were extremely conservative and Grace, who had become an independent woman accustomed to making important decisions about her own life, butted up against these attitudes and was often lost and unhappy.

Some members of Ranier's family always considered her to be an interloper and she was far away in Monaco from her friends and family. Her daughters were both difficult, making unsuitable marriages or liaisons with unsuitable men although Albert, her only son, was sensible and responsible.

Ranier saw that she was unhappy and suggested, much to her joy, that she could return to Hollywood now and again to make suitable movies but the people of Monaco vetoed that decision almost unanimously. Bitterly disappointed, and realizing that she was trapped, Grace decided not to succumb to regret but to accept her situation and build a life in her adopted country with Ranier and her children and she did this for twenty-six years until her untimely death in a car accident in September 1982.

It was not a fairy-tale. She made choices, faced the consequences, overcame her regrets and found acceptance, not as a princess but very much as a woman. This biography tells us so much more about her life than we ever imagined when we first saw her looking so serene and beautiful at her wedding. Often we are quite unaware of the truth until we read books such as this.

V is for Vegetables

V is also for van, vase, violin, voice, violets, vote, vine, vultures and volcanoes. Australia has all of those - except the last two (vultures and volcanoes!)

There are numerous old, non-active volcanoes on the mainland of Australia - the last eruption occurred 5000 years ago.

As for vultures in Australia? They died out about 50,000 years ago!

I asked Chat GPT to write me some vegetable verses . . . and this was the best of a pretty bad lot. I think I should stick to trying to write my own.

In his first full year of Senior footy, Rhino gave the team an ability to have different players play multiple roles. Whether it be in the forward line clunking contested marks, or playing in the ruck giving the mids first use of the ball, Rhino has been an awesome contributor for the club. He is a great person with a great attitude, which is something we hold in very high regard at Tigerland.

The club can't wait to see the growth in Ryan both individually as a person and as a player, but also having him take another step forward in his career! Welcome back Ryan for a second year.

The RFNC is extremely excited to announce the signing of Josh Francis for season 2026!

Josh comes to us after playing his junior career at the strong Kyabram Football Club. He is no stranger to Ironbark Stadium but now we get to see him showcase his talents on the field. "Ludders" brings a wealth of experience and also a hard-nosed edge to his game. This will improve the teams style even further. We can't wait to see Ludders in action at Ironbark in 2026

Rushworth Field and Game receives Fosterville Gold mine Community Grant

Rushworth Field and Game were pleased to accept a grant of $4570 from the Fosterville Gold Mine at a recent presentation along with other recipients of grants.

Conservation officer Graeme Wall, along with Grant Mitchell, Aiden Porter and Lucas Jones were invited along to the presentation and morning tea by Leigh Byrne the Fosterville Mine Community Officer.

After a brief presentation about the mine and its story and plans, Leigh Krois and Lance Faulkner made the presentations to Grant recipients.

Leigh Byrne was impressed with the Field and Game submission and plans are underway for the mine community and environmental teams to visit Rushworth.

The environmental team are continually doing rehabilitation work and are keen to see the various boxes being designed and made at Rushworth as they are about to start installing boxes around the mine site.

This will give a chance to share knowledge of what works and what doesn't and hopefully greater success for both organizations.

New hen house design shows excellent results

The hen houses installed on the storm water wetlands on the east and west end of Rushworth town are already producing safe nest sites.

As people make there way along the rail trail, they will notice the hen houses. One has eight eggs in it (photo below) and the hen is sitting on the eggs and will continue to do so until they hatch around twenty-eight days.

As you would imagine, the Rushworth P12 students are enjoying the results. Building the hen houses is a bit mundane - erecting them is somewhat more enthralling and checking on their progress and finding eggs and a hen sitting on the eggs is out of expectations.

For the safety of the nesting birds, admirers are asked to keep their distance. The team is also considering the installation of trail cameras to capture more images of the nesting activity, which can be shared with the community in the future.

Regional All Abilities Participation Grants now open

The Nationals' Member for Euroa, Annabelle Cleeland, has welcomed the opening of the Regional All Abilities Participation Grants, encouraging local sporting clubs and community groups to apply.

Unlike many other programs, these grants are open for direct applications by local sporting clubs and community-based not-for-profit organisations, rather than through councils.

They help organisations purchase specialised equipment, recruit and support people with disability, and expand programs that are inclusive and accessible.

The grants are offered across three categories, with up to $25,000 available in each:

Category 1: Equipment and Travel

- Purchase modified equipment, assistive technology, adaptive clothing, or environmental aids
- Reduce travel costs for participants with disability, including players, officials, and support personnel

Category 2: Inclusion Workforce

- Employ a specialised workforce to support the needs of people with disability
- Recruit, mentor, and retain a person with disability in a paid or voluntary role

Category 3: Programs and Disability-led Initiatives

- Deliver ongoing sport or active recreation programs for people with disability
- Run projects led by or involving people with disability in decision-making

Last year, Seymour's Riding for the Disabled Association received funding through the program, helping them expand opportunities for participants in the region.

"These grants are not just about equipment or programs – they're about giving everyone the chance to participate, feel included, and be part of their local sporting community," Ms Cleeland said.

"We know how important sporting clubs are to our regional communities, and any funding to ensure more people in our towns can participate will be undeniably positive.

"I look forward to seeing our local clubs participate through this program and will be happy to support those as they submit applications."

Applications for the 2025 grants are open now and close on 19 November 2025.

For more information on eligibility and the application process, visit Regional All Abilities Participation Grants.

Lloyd Meek, Connor Nash and Harry Morrison put the Colbo boys through their paces with a high-energy run-through and plenty of tips along the way. A big thanks to Benny McEvoy for organising the session and getting the boys down to MJ Morgan Oval.
